Children’s Health™ Children’s Medical Center (Dallas, TX) is seeking a full-time pediatric health psychologist. The psychologist in this position will provide clinical services to children and adolescents through the consult-liaison service and in various medical specialty clinics. Clinical work will include inpatient consult-liaison services, outpatient/ambulatory intervention, and close collaboration with members of multidisciplinary medical teams. Opportunities are also available for the psychologist in this position to conduct research and participate in supervision and training activities. Experience in early childhood mental health and ability to provide services in Spanish is preferred.

Additional details
This position is part of the Pediatric Health Psychology reporting structure within the department of Psychiatry. Psychology staff members have close and supportive working relationships with hospital-based physician specialists and community pediatricians. The division has a well-developed training program with an APA-accredited post-doctoral fellowship in clinical child psychology. Positions involve frequent opportunities for teaching and supervision of psychology trainees as well as medical students and pediatric residents. Although clinical and educational activities will be the primary focus of the position, research and other scholarly activity will be encouraged, and opportunities exist for collaborative research with established researchers. Psychologists hired into this position will be considered for a faculty appointment in the Department of Psychiatry at UT Southwestern.

Qualifications

Education
- Ph.D. or Psy.D. in Clinical, Counseling, or School Psychology from an APA-accredited doctoral program
- Postdoctoral fellowship training in clinical child or pediatric health psychology
- Internship training from an APA-accredited program in clinical child or pediatric health psychology

Licenses & certifications
- A passing score on the EPPP at the level required for licensure by the Texas State Board of Examiners of Psychologists
- Licensure as a Psychologist or as a Provisionally Licensed Psychologist in Texas by date of hire

Experience
- Recent and extensive clinical experience with Consult-Liaison work and various pediatric chronic illness populations is strongly preferred
